LA CROSSE BUSINESS MAN REPUDIATES CONNECTION

WASHBURN DENIES IT, TOO

Minneapolis Capitalist Stranger to Mississippi River Gas & Electric Transportation Co.

The Mississippi River Gas Electric Transportation company, as represented by its advance agents, left La Crosse hurriedly a few weeks ago after somebody ostensibly connected with the company had been interviewed at central police station.

The crisis in the affairs of the company came after a well known young business man had stopped payment on a check made out to Mr. Webber. The gentleman is not inclined to discuss the reason for the repudiation of the check, but it is learned it was issued as partial payment for stock. The amount was inconsequential, being but $5.

The company bases its claims as to the value of its idea upon what is said to be a new and effective invention for using producer gas as an agent for the generation of electric current for motive power. Its prospectus is a glittering affair, rich in promise of dividends, and its promoters were remarkably liberal in their proposals for parting with the valuable stock in the concern. The agents who appeared here gave the names of George W. Singleton and L. M. Dunwoody. They came close upon the heels of John A. Fox, special agent of the Rivers and Harbors congress, whose visit was devoted to the creation of interest in the deep waterways plans in which the Mississippi Valley is interested. Later a Mr. Webber, said to be president of the company, and a Mr. McDonald, appeared on the scene.

Used L. F. Easton's Name

The gentlemen were persuasive talkers and were armed with letters endorsing their project, as to its claimed intent at least, from Mr. Fox and other men high in the waterway movement and commercial world. They secured an audience at a meeting of the Manufacturers & Jobbers' union, at which a conservative testimonial of the plan was given them, the cautious business men of La Crosse guardedly refraining from any endorsement of the men or their specific project, and artfully drifting into generalities about as specific as the language of a candidate explaining his stand on the liquor question.

Left City After Disclosures

Their departure from the city followed disclosures affecting the representations made by the agents. The men represented to Mr. L. F. Easton, whom they solicited to take stock, that Mr. Washburn of the Washburn-Crosby company of Minneapolis, was a stockholder and prospective director. Later they represented to others that Mr. Easton had agreed to take stock, and had consented to become a director.

Washburn Tells Wing About It

E. M. Wing, cashier of the Batavian bank, took occasion to write to Mr. Washburn, receiving from the latter a positive denial of any knowlege of the company or connection with it.

"Are you interested in the Mississippi River Gas and Electric Transportation company? Are you a stockholder, and have you consented to become a director?"

Upon being located at the Batavian bank late this afternoon, Mr. Easton made the following reply to the above inquiry:

Local Man Not Interested

"I am not a stockholder, and have absolutely no connections with that company, nor do I intend to have. I have said nothing that could in any way be construed as even intimating that I would be. Nothing I said to them, or did, could possibly have been construed even as a suggestion that I looked with favor on the scheme, or that I would have had confidence in it had I known personally that it was strongly capitalized by men of known standing and integrity. In fact, my entire attitude regarding the concern was one of undisguised pessimism."

"Is it a fact that others were solicited to buy stock on the representation that you are a stockholder and would become a director?" Mr. Easton was asked.

Left Town Quietly

"I was approached by these people as a possible investor, they representing to me that Mr. Washburn of the Washburn-Crosby company was to be a director. I have no knowl-

JACK KLINE ON BURGLARY CHARGE

WINONAN NABBED HERE IN DIAMOND ROBBERY

FACES ARCADIA ACCUSERS

Managed to Get Off at Minneapolis, but Present Case is Said to be Stronger One

Jack Kline, twice arrested in La Crosse, was arrested at Winona yesterday morning, charged with having burglarized the Robert Barlow hardware store and the Krumholz & Stencil establishment at Arcadia on Thursday night, Sept. 24. He was taken back to face his accusers yesterday afternoon.

On the above night the two stores were entered and at the former the burglars cracked the safe and made away with a clean $160 while at the latter establishment but $5 was secured. The eye of suspicion rested upon Kline and a companion. Kline was seen several times in the Barlow store and also in the rear of the building on various pretexts. He had secured a key to an outbuilding back of both stores "touched" and was seen to go there twice. Residents of Arcadia declare they saw this same man passing up and down the alley prior to the burglary. The last seen of him was the night before the stores were entered.

Immediately after the looting was discovered Undersheriff H. E. Hensel of Arcadia notified La Crosse and Winona authorities of his suspions and asking that they hold Kline if he made his appearance there until they could come with the warrant and formally charging him with the crime. Kline was described as having worn a blue suit, straight rim hat and smooth shaven.

Captured at Winona.

Early yesterday morning Acting Night Captain Al. Winkels of Winona discovered his man at the Milwaukee station, about to board the northbound train for St. Paul. He was placed under arrest but showed fight, refusing to go to the station. After a slight scuffle the chains were put on him and he was locked up and the Arcadia people notified. Word came back immediately to hold Kline until they could come with the warrant. Undersheriff Hensel of Whitehall went to Winona and took charge of him.

Kline was arrested here last winter with Owen Moran, charged with a bold Minneapolis diamond robbery. Moran got a year, but Kline escaped without any sentence. He has been arrested several times in Winona on various minor offenses.

On July 3 he was arrested for the robbery of Mrs. Sabolowitz of $12.91. Mrs. Sabalowitz was trying to befriend him when she caught him going through her purse.

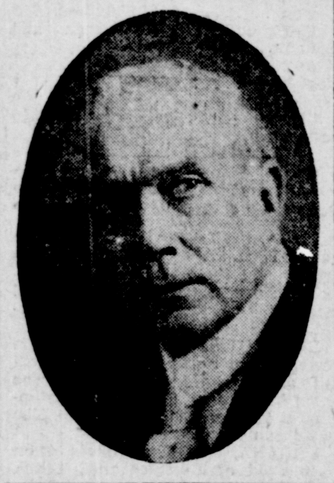

Kline has been taken to Whitehall where he will have a preliminary hearing and if the evidence is sufficient he will be bound over to the next term of circuit court. He went from Winona without extradition.

Hearing Continued Today.

This morning Kline was arraigned at Whitehall for a hearing, but the hearing was continued until Wednesday, Oct. 7, according to information received this afternoon from the district attorney at Whitehall

TARIFF REVISION BUSINESS AFFAIR

STANDPATTER AND FREE TRADER BOTH BACK NUMBERS.

ADDRESS BY A. J. BEVERIDGE

For Maximum and Minimum Schedules—Says Tariff Commission Must Be Named.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 2.—Both the free trader and the stand-patter are back numbers, according to Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana who addressed a tariff speech here last night. There is a happy mean by which the United States can maintain its supremacy in the markets of the world and still furnish that protection to American manufacturers and to American labor that has made f orthe prosperity the nation has enjoyed since the last democratic administration. He declared the tariff is a business problem and the solution of those questions involved should be attempted coolly and without partisan bias.

Mr. Beveridge assumed that revision would be by the republicans with Judge Taft in the white house.

"In the new tariff which we will make immediately after President Taft's inauguration we republicans propose to reject alike the long since gray and toothless theaory of a tariff-for-revenue-only and the now halting and crippled theory of a single protective tariff, and adopt instead of either a revenue system that will protect American industry and labor, and at the same time win new markets all over the world for everything that American industry and labor produce," he said. Senator Beveridge added that "It will not be a log-roller's tariff on the one hand, made by politicians trading votes for this interest or that; nor a fanatic's tariff on the other hand, sacrificing all interests to an absurd theory. It will be a business-like tariff builded for the welfare of the American people alone. Such a tariff can be neither a straight-out revenue tariff nor a straight-out protective tariff."

DRIVEN TO THEFT BY ANTI-GAMBLING LAW

OMAHA, Oct. 2.—The saloon problem was discussed at today's session of the League of American Municipalities here. Mayor Rose of Milwaukee was the principal speaker. The mayors of St. Louis, New Orleans, Dubuque and Atlanta took part in the debate.

MYSTERIOUS BABE IN RUSTIN AFFAIR

MRS. RICE WROTE RUSTIN OF "THE BABY"

SAYS IT WAS ONLY A JOKE

But Officials Now Seek to Locate Child in Davis Murder Mystery

OMAHA, Oct. 2.—Chas. E. Davis, charged with killing Dr. Frederick Rustin, and Mrs. Abbie Rice, were called to appear before the court today to answer questions propounded by the insurance company, preliminary to the fight expected over paying the insurance Rustin carried for his wife and children. Eleven questions will be asked Rice and eight Davis. It is expected that Davis will take advantage of the criminal proceedings against him and refuse to answer them.

A mysterious letter written by Mrs. Rice to Rustin was introduced as evidence today when the hearing began. She was asked to identify the letter, which said:

"I want to thank you again for your kindness. The operation proved very successful and I am feeling better than for two years. The baby is doing nicely and growing fast. My husband joins in sending his best regards."

Mrs. Rice identified the letter, but denied having a baby. She declared the letter was just foolishness. The baby talk in the letters was a joke between her and Dr. Rustin, she said. The police today began search for the baby.

JAP GIRL SUICIDE TO SAVE DIPLOMAT

Commoner Says All Reports are Satisfactory—General Resume of Day's Political News

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The Evening Post in its leading political article today says it was learned that Roosevelt has sent Elihu Root to New York to find out what was the matter with the campaign. Root will report to Roosevelt that Sheldon, the treasurer, is the weak point and will recommend a change.

NORTH PLATTE, Oct. 2.—Taft, in his speeches, today addressed himself chiefly to farmers, comparing the prices now paid to the prices paid when the democrats were in control. During the day he speaks at Kimball, Neb., Cheyenne, Wyo., and Julesburg, Greeley, La Salle and Denver, Col. Dolliver and other members of the Taft party are congratulating him on the reception he received during the trip.

Bryan Plans New Trip.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 2.—Bryan today began a study of the reports of canvassers made in the so called doubtful states and will decide where his next campaign trip will be. He will go where he seems to be most needed. He has definitely decided to abandon the coast state trip as the time is too short.

Reports from various democrats in states where Taft has been speaking declare that Taft made small inroads into the Bryan movement. Preliminary canvasses made in Nebraska indicate that Bryan will carry the state by 25,000, Bryan's friends say. He will endeavor to arrange his time so as to spend the last three weeks in Ohio, New Jersey and New York.

Mack "Shows Up" Sheldon.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Chairman Mack issued a statement today which said: "The trust and corporation affiliation of Geo. R. Sheldon, treasurer of the republican committee, makes interesting reading. On account of these associations, Odell refused to allow him to run for lieutenant governor in 1902. Most of the corporations with which Sheldon is allied are capitalized for millions. Dupont is only allied with one trust; Sheldon is now identified with seventeen. Sheldon is treasurer and director of the North American company, capitalized at $30,000,000; a few years ago he was prominently identified with the whiskey trust."

FINAL STRUGGLE COMMENCES TODAY

WALSH WILL TWIRL FOR SOX AGAINST NAPS

RESULT MAY DECIDE PENNANT

Detroit Opens With St. Louis in the Final Fight for the Pennant

The final struggle for the American league pennant begins today. Chicago will clinch with Cleveland today and tomorrow and Sox fans are hoping that they will return Sunday with a hold on first place.

Detroit plays St. Louis two games and the Sox rooters look to see St. Louis take at least one if not two of the games. Detroit is weak on pitchers and with the infield crippled St. Louis will give them a hard rub. Jack Powell and Rube Waddell will do the twirling for the Browns and it looks dubious for the Tigers with their patched up team.

The Chicago White Sox must win 4 Jones says they can do it and he bases his hopes on Ed Walsh, the great spit-ball artist who is almost invincible and will be in excellent shape for the games at Cleveland as he has had two days' rest after the wonderful feat of winning a double header from Boston, only allowing 7 hits in 18 innings. Behides Walsh, the Sox have White and Smith both of who are displaying the best form they have shown this season. Pitted against the Sox are Berger, Joss, Chech and Rhoades but it is doubtful whether he will use all of these men in the last five games. It is certain, however, that Jajoie has saved Joss, the star twirler for the Naps, to go against Chicago while Ed Walsh has been working overtime for the Sox. What Joss has in freshness will be more than balanced by Walsh's skill, as he is by far the best pitcher in the league.

If the White Sox win from Cleveland they will dispose of Detroit easily. Chicago fans say that the race rests with Cleveland and Chicago so the coming series will probably decide the championship.

BETTERS MAY BE LIABLE TO ARREST

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The fact that Gov. Hughes has written to both District Attorney Ira G. Darrin and Sheriff Harvey of Queens county commanding them to see that the law against betting at the race tracks is enforced in Queens county, was made known by Mr. Darrin.

The Aqueduct race track, where a race meeting is in progress, is in Queens county. The district attorney said that after receiving the communication from Gov. Hughes he detailed several plain clothes men to watch for evidence at the track, and that these men reported that they saw more or less betting there.

Mr. Darrin added that if he obtained sufficient evidence he would ask for indictments and that he would visit the track personally. It was reported also that Mr. Darrin warned the officials of the track to keep out the bookmakers.

Sheriff Harvey said that he had been unable to discover any open betting at the track, and that he could not prevent verbal betting.

CENTRAL LEAGUE MAKES BIG PROFIT

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 2.—Reports from the eight cities composing the Central league show that the past season was the most profitable since the organization of the circuit seven years ago. Six of the clubs made excellent profits for their backers and only two failed to draw well enough to allow the payment of dividends to stockholders. The attendance and sale of a dozen star players to the majors put the league on a firm financial footing, and the magnates are now more enthusiastic than ever over the future of the organization.

ST. JOHN'S HAS NEW COACH

DELAFIELD, Wis., Oct. 2.—Sundby, an old Wisconsin player, has been installed as head coach. Mr. Karnes of the corps of instructors will have charge of the second squad. Dr. Smythe will take the third squad and Lieutenant Lowery will have the overlooking of the fourth squad. Football stock took a jump, with the advent of the head coach, and some sixty men were out for practice. The first game on the campus will be with Pewaukee high school on Saturday, when the fourth squad will line up against the high school boys.

Mr. Wittee, another old Wisconsin man, has been engaged to look after the interests of the crew men. With the material in sight it is thought that the fastest crew that St. John's has ever had will be on the water next spring, there being availablt five old men. Wisconsin freshmen will be invited to try conclusions with the cadets this coming season.

BUTTONMAKERS STRIKE.

MUSCATINE, Ia., Oct. 2.—The pearl button industry is at a standstill in Muscatine. Five hundred blank cutters walked out of the automatic cutting and finishing plant, the third largest sweet water pearl button factory in the world, and a thousand others may follow.

During the money stringency last fall the cutters' wages were cut half a cent per gross and now that affairs are moving smoothly they want the half a cent restored. A mass meeting attended by 500 cutters was held, and all agreed to stay out until the manufacturers come to time.

The manufacturers are endeavoring to secure men to work on the old scale.

NAPOLEON LAJOIE

The leader of the Cleveland baseball team which is one of the main contenders for the American League pennant, is dubbed the greatest all-round living baseball player and should the Clevelanders win a pennant after all its unsuccessful striving there would be much rejoicing in this good old Ohio baseball town.

No Wonder.

They were discussing the relative position of various countries as musical centers. Germany seemed to give the most votaries, much to the evident displeasure of one excitable Italian, who wished his own country to carry off the palm. "Italy is turning out the most musicians, and has always turned out the most," he cried. "Ach, Gott," exclaimed the German present, "can you plame her?"—Everybody's Magazine.

New York broke even with Philadelphia and thereby retained the lead in the National league race. The visitors knocked Corridon off the rubber in the first inning of the opening contest, but the home team bunched hits off Mathewson and tied the score in the fourth inning. In the last five innings Philadelphia could get only two hits off Mathewson, while Ritchie held his opponents down to three hits during these sessions.

New York scored the winning run in the sixth inning when, with Devlin on first and two out, Magee muffed a drive by Needham, the former scoring.

Covaleski held New York to four hits in the second game and the home team won easily. They knocked Wiltse off the rubber in three innings and also touched up McGinnity's curves. New York's runs were scored in the sixth inning on two bases on balls and Devlin's double.

Chicago had no trouble defeating Cincinnati yesterday the ragged fielding of the locals assisting the visitors materially in their scoring. Reulbach held the locals to two hits, both of which were made by Egan.

SPORTING BRIEFS.

IOWA CITY—Coach Marc Catlin has decided to use the forward pass largely and the team has been practicing throwing the ball a great deal lately. The squad looks fine at present.

LAFAYETTE—The Purdue team went through signal practice and will have another light practice before the game tomorrow. The men are stopping at the Chicago Beach hotel. The squad numbers 21 men.

URBANA, Ill.—The Illinois team is in need of a kicker and Coach Huff is drilling Sinnock, the little quarter back, in the art. He hopes to get him in shape for the Chicago game.

MADISON—The team is getting in shape and with the new additions looks better than was at first supposed. The men will be put through scrimmage work soon.

BLOOMINGTON—The Indiana team has received an awful shock by Cartwright's leaving. This was the second time within two weeks that he has left the team. Sheldon will not take him back according to his statement.

ANN ARBOR—Coach Yost is putting the team through a hard scrimmage every night and an effort will be made to get the backs in shape soon. Heston, Snow and Hammond, Michigan's greatest stars, are to help Yost on the coaching line.

CHICAGO—Coach Stagg will use light line men in tomorrow's game, contrary to all former traditions and practice. Stagg wants a fast line as well as fast backs. The heavy men will be on the side line Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA — Swarthmore will resume football next season, according to a report recntly given out.

SOUTH BEND—It is rumored that Lee Tannehill will quit the Sox at the end of this season. He will probably be connected with the Central league next year.

MINNEAPOLIS—The Maxwell car is well on its way for the Minneapolis-Chicago record. The recent rains will help the sandy roads and the prospects are good.

WANTS $5,000 TO REFEREE BATTLE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 2.—Jim Jeffries has received a cablegram from the sporting syndicate that is arranging the Burns-Johnson fight in Australia asking on what terms the former heavyweight champion will referee the match there. Jeffries cabled that his price would be $5,000. He says this is not an exorbitant figure, inasmuch as he would be absent three months.

It is believed here the syndicate will accept Jeffries' proposition, as he never has been in Australia and his presence in the ring would be a big drawing card.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

The skin is an index to the quality of the blood. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, pimples, rashes, eruptions, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is diseasing and corrupting the circulation, so that instead of supplying nourishment and strength to the fine, delicate tissues of the skin, it is continually pouring out its acrid and unhealthy accumulations. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomfort caused by skin troubles, and for this reason should be used, but such treatment cannot reach the humor-laden blood, and therefore cannot cure. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., a purely vegetable preparation, is the best and quickest remedy. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes and removes the acids, impurities and humors, thoroughly purifies the circulation and permanently cures skin diseases of every kind. When S. S. S. has driven the humors and impurities from the blood, and cooled and cleansed the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with rich, healthful blood and the trouble cured, as the cause has been removed. DOES HEARST BEAT BRYAN?

"Is a great ambition to be thwarted by a petty personal quarrel?" asks Walter Wellman. And then the journalist gives facts and figures indicating that Bryan would probably carry New York, and the election with it, were it not for Independence Candidate Hisgen, or "His'n," as Wellman says they call the gentleman in New York, intimating that he "belongs to Hearst." As usual, Mr. Wellman's article is interesting, and tends toward conviction. The portion of it dealing most directly with the figures follows:

"The 25,000 or 35,000 votes Hisgen is likely to get in this state may determine the presidency. When Bryan first ran for president in 1896 he was beaten by McKinley 268,000 votes in New York. He polled only 38.6 per cent of the total vote against McKinley's 57.5 per cent. In 1900 Bryan did much better. That year his percentage increased to 43.75, and McKinley's dropped to 53. The plurality was 143,000. In 1896 Bryan had in this state only 551,000 votes. In 1900 he had 678,000, an increase of 127,000, or of 23 per cent. Even then he did not poll the full party vote. What can he do this year? Can he make another gain like that of 1900 over 1896? Probably not. Another such step forward would give him nearly 49 per cent of the total vote and a plurality over Taft. But there are conditions which work surely toward some Bryan gains over his 1900 poll. These conditions are well known. Some of them have been pointed out in these dispatches and others are to be. Even the republicans admit Bryan is much stronger than he ever was before. How much stronger? The republicans admit 50,000 to 75,000. The democrats claim 150,000. My own belief is that Bryan will get 80,000 to 100,000 over his 1900 poll, or a total of about 770,000.

"If he can do this he will come very near winning the state. Four years ago the total vote in New York was 1,600,000. This year it will be about 1,675,000. The prohibitionists may poll 30,000. They are gaining here as everywhere. The socialists are gaining too, and their total is likely to be 40,000. If Hisgen gets 30,000 these three smaller parties take 100,000 from the grand total, leaving 1,575,000 to be divided between Taft and Bryan. One-half of that is 788,000. Assume that Bryan gets the 770,000 we have allotted him, then Taft would have 805,000 and a plurality of 35,000.

"Such figures as the foregoing are not given as a final analysis or forecast. They are employed hypothetically, merely for the purpose of getting a better understanding of the situation in this state and for showing how important and possibly decisive may be the 20,000 to 25,000 votes Hearst is taking away from Bryan. The candidate who gets 800,000 votes will carry New York. Bryan could come very near that great total if the implacable hatred of Hearst did not darken his patth.

"With Hisgen or 'His'n' in the field, it is apparent Taft has the best of it. But the margin is not wide, and the republican managers do well to begin sitting up and taking notice. One great big fact which they are just realizing is that for the first time in many years the democracy of this state is virtually united. In 1896 and 1900 the conservative element couldn't stand the young western radical, and the party was hopelessly rent in twain. In 1904 the trusts and financiers named the candidate and the radicals wouldn't stand for him. That shows why Parker was worse beaten than Bryan had been in 1900, getting a smaller per cent of the total vote and Roosevelt getting a larger plurality than McKinley had had. Thanks to Mr. Bryan's cleverness in being a radical in the west and a conservative in the east—thanks also to President Roosevelt, who has made even Bryan appear tame and slow and steady—the New York democracy is now a united party for the first time since Grover Cleveland carried the state in 1892."

THE IMPORTANCE OF UNITY

In addressing the International Tuberculosis congress yesterday Dr. Abroham Jacobi indulged in a discussion of the importance of the congress, and as to the necessity of unity of purpose—co-operation—in fighting a battle which, as it affects mortality, he declares second only in magnitude to The Hague international peace conferences. No better argument for the promotion of general and helpful interest in this great work has come to our notice, and following we copy at length from the address:

"If there be any concourses of more merit and endowed with more beneficent influence in shaping the future of our race than even peace congresses, it is the series of congresses on hygiene and demography, and principally those on tuberculosis which have met during the last two decades.

"Tuberculosis has proved the deadliest and most obstinate enemy of them all. Its onset is insidious, its course frequently not suspected or watched, its invasion not prevented on account of the neglect of mucous membranes, its development insured by depressed vitality, its curability ignored, and its fatal termination more favored than palliated.

"The relation of the physician to the treatment of tuberculosis is twofold. As a medical adviser of the individual patient, he looks for his comfort, advises him in regard to his diet and other hygiene, selects a sanitarium, counsels change of occupation, and utilizes other therapeutic measures.

"In this way many are saved. It is true that while what we accomplish is frequently the restoration of perfect health, it is however in too numerous cases life only without health that is preserved. But the invalid has a right to life and to command our efforts to save and invigorate him. It is characteristic for misanthropic critics to blame us for preserving inferior individuals, but not to object to wholesale destruction. For the strenuous foolhardiness which still sees virtue and happiness in war-like enterprises, forget that by war the flower of the land's men, and not weaklings, are killed or rendered invalid or demoralized, and that the lower stratum of vigor remains behind to live and to multiply and to transmit their own diseases or physical inferiority or predispositions.

"What the physician is doing for the individual or for the family, medical science and the profession at large have been and are doing for the sanitary conditions of the public at large and the community through well directed literature, through boards of health and through legislation. This very congress has reserved a whole section to the consideration of state and municipal control of tuberculosis, and of laws and ordinances relating to it. The time is approaching when the people will insist upon having its health safeguarded by the public recognition of its claims. We have in this country a cabinet with special members for law, for war, for the navy, for foreign politics, for internal political and economic improvements. We have a special department for agriculture, which supplies the people with rare and common seeds, and prevents and cures the diseases of their cattle. We even begin to make an end of our dereliction in allowing our forests to be burned, murdered or stolen. We have, however, no central representation of the forces that make for the physical welfare of the people, and no United States board of health in the advisory cabinet of the first employee of the nation. That is why the people in their democratic and self-determining methods are gathering in societies, attempting and attaining what in many other countries it takes the powers of the governments to accomplish. That is why a congress like this invites the public at large and the national and foreign governments to share the labors and responsibilities of the medical professions of the world. Nothing proves to better advantage the interdependence of the several parts of the social organism, or the absolute impossibility of one man, or one class of men, to pass a hermit life and prove useful. The individual physician deteriorates when in solitude. His very studies, his work, require friction and co-operation and mutual instruction. The intercourse with his peers corrects his ignorance, which, as the sick around him have to suffer from it more than he, is sinful. No progress is ever evolved from castes, classes or ruts. That is why the wondrous civilization of Asia came to a standstill at an early period. That is why medicine cannot be learned from mere books, any more than politics. Indeed, in hermit life there is such a thing as a primeval forest of ignorance and helplessness, without means of extrication, and without aims to be reached.

"Indeed, medicine must become a popular science, not the cheap medicine of the sensational penny-a-liner, but the fertilizing knowledge of basic truths in physiology and applied hygiene. In this new country, universal ignorance of any people or any race, even the white, should be esteemed an intolerable scandal, as it surely leads to poverty and anarchy. Do not tell me that it has been said that half knowledge is the most detrimental thing. It is not half knowledge that engenders superstition and lynching and sectarianism and faith cures—they originate from the same depth of darkness—it is total ignorance. As long as medical science will not enlighten the masses with its fundamental principles, it has failed in its most vital vocation. The simple facts of medicine should be taught in intelligible language in schools, from platforms, the pulpits, and last, by no means least, in newspapers.

"The unity of science has been preached this half century. There must be unity of science and the nation's practice. Men and women must learn that hygiene is no cure, nor mere disinfection; that it means prevention, prevention in the life of the individual, the town, the nation, mankind. We trust it may lead to a realization of the fact that a permanent health of the people at large cannot be fully attained except by fundamental social and political alterations. As these are far distant, the changes we would wish to enforce cannot be otherwise than gradual. Neither you nor I may live to see complete consummation. It may be, however, that some of you have read the epitaph on Charles Wesley's tomb in Westminster. "God buries His workmen but continues His work." Thus as there were workmen in our field before you and me, let us prepare the soil still better for those who will come after us, and still diminish the distance between the ideal and its realization. We doctors shall not find that very difficult, when we remember that our father Hippokrates identified the love of mankind and that of our vocation. Both will aid us in assisting the advent of the era of therapy which is dawning and promises cures and preventions in physical, political and social conditions, and help us in becoming active citizens, both of the present and of the inevitable happier future."

Some days ago Walter Wellman expressed a thought that has since found an echo in the words of many republican leaders—the wish that the guarantee of bank deposits might be taken out of politics and treated as a business policy. Yesterday Senator Beveridge declared that he would like to see tariff revision taken from politics and treated as a business matter. He, too, will find plenty of republicans to approve. Recently the Free Press declared that the popular election of United States senators was a matter that was being settled "irrespective of parties," as was also publicity of campaign contributions.

Possibly Senator Beveridge might have been more expeditious had he wished that the entire Denver platform might be treated as a business matter to be settled outside of the political arena.

Black 48 point headlines in many newspapers recently announced that the bankers convention had stigmatized Mr. Bryan's guarantee of deposits plan as a financial heresy, but they left the admission that the bankers had also condemned the postal savings bank to the wee small voice of 10 pt. brevier. The fact is that Bryan and Taft broke even before this bankers' tribunal, which naturally is interested in what makes most for profitable banking, and which has a comparatively small concern about what is best for the depositor.

A certain college president was entertaining a freshman at dinner, when the conversation turned upon football. To the student's surprise, the president displayed a thorough familiarity with the game, and proceeded to discuss it as earnestly as though it had been Greek or mathematics. Indeed, his treatment of the topic brought out so many points that the freshman had overlooked, that the youth was moved to remark to his hostess:

"Well, this talk with President Blank has showed me how true it is we never meet any one from whom we can't learn something!"—Lippincott's.

CURE FOR ECZEMA DISCOVERED

Dr. J. E. Currier Tells How It Can Be Used by the Patients Themselves.

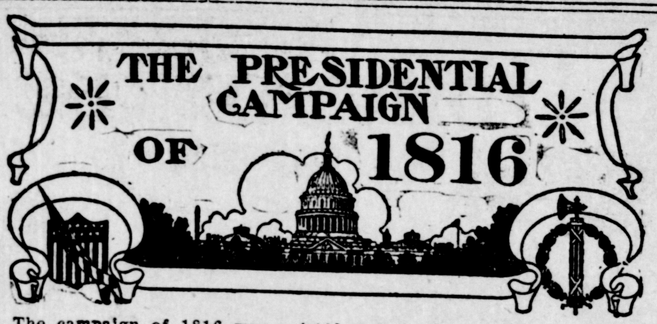

(From Chicago Examiner.)

"Eczema, tetter, ringworm and other skin diseases are spreading," says Dr. J. E. Currier in the Doctor's Guide, writing about a new and wonderfully successful cure for skin affections.

"I apply plain pure citrox, dissolved in hot water, twice a day. You who know how stubborn tetter, ringworm and eczema can be, will be amazed to see how soon this stops the itching, dries up the eruption and causes a growth of new healthy skin. I now tell my patients to get a package of pure citrox at the drug store and dissolve a teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of hot water, as this solution must be made fresh each time and used warm.

"I am having better success than ever before. A case of tetter on the hand that had run six months, citrox cured in a week; and a young woman whose back was a mass of pustules was cured in two weeks. I could cite many others. Be careful to get the pure drug put up in small, sealed packages, as the common kind sold in bulk is not fit for medical use."

It will interest women to learn that this well-known drug's value for skin disease was discovered accidentally by the doctor's wife.

The campaign of 1816 was quiet and harmonious as any ever held in the country since the first Washington election. The successful culmination of the war of 1812, under the direction of President Madison, removed whatever obstacles confronted Madison's popularity at the time of his second election in 1812. The treaty of Ghent, concluded on December 24, 1814, was decisively a victory not only for American arms but for American diplomacy. The natural result was the enhancement of the Madison popularity and when the republicans gathered to caucus for a presidential nominee for the third time in the brief history of the government the ruling second term president could have had a practically unanimous third nomination and third election. But following the well-grounded example set by Washington and Jefferson, Madison also declined to be considered for a third term. Thus is was that in the first generation of the American republic the no third term custom was firmly fixed in the practices of American politics.

When Madison succeeded Jefferson to the presidency he stepped from the secretary of stateship to the White house. The custom was sufficiently well grounded to have become a precedent and now the secretary of state, who had served Madison, became his successor for the republican nomination. Thus it was that James Monroe became the republican leader and nominee with ex-Governor Daniel D. Tompkins, of New York, for vice president. The federalists again nominated Rufus King, this time for president, where in the two preceding campaigns he had been the nominee for vice president.

From the first it was apparent that the federalists had absolutely no chance. They had killed themselves as a party and as a power in the course of the war of 1812. The famous Hartford convention had been the death blow to what remained of the federalist party. This party had not only opposed the war from the first but at a time when the government was straining every nerve to repell the invasion of the enemy it was meeting in secret conclave to consider the expediency of seceding from the Union. Their opposition had embarrassed the government in the prosecution of the war and probably had delayed its termination and now that an honorable peace had been concluded the party was justly held up to execration. After 1816 the federalists as a party never cast another vote. This was the chief political result of the war of 1812.

In the election of 1816, Monroe received 183 electoral votes and King obtained but 34. Thus did the federalist party expire.

The death of the federalist party however, while leaving the republicans in supreme control, was by no means a prophesy of a one-party government. The republicans were soon divided into democrats and national republicans or Whigs.

President Monroe was the last of the republican statesmen to reach the presidency and the last of the famous Virginia "dynasty," which, with the brief exception of the period from 1797 to 1801, had furnished the republic its chief magistrates since the adoption of the constitution.

SPOTLIGHTS

Prof. M. H. Norwood.

Prof. Norwood, the hypnotist and his clever company of mystery workers will present their scientific and mirth provoking entertainments at the La Crosse theater for one week, commencing Sunday matinee, Oct. 4. They are acknowledged to be the greatest exponents of hypnotism and mysticism ever presented to the scientific and amusement loving public. Mr. and Mrs. Norwood's strong and incomprehensible feats of mental telepathy, and mind reading work has to be seen to be appreciated. The show concludes with a grand hypnotic scene, by subjects chosen from the audience. Ladies free Monday, the opening night, under the usual conditions.

Donald Robertson Tonight.

The announcement that the well known Shakespearian star, William Owen, has been engaged as one of Donald Robertson's principal supporting actors, this season, bears out the claim that the Robertson company is one of the strongest dramatic organizations on the American stage. Mr. Owen has played at the head of his own company in seasons past, and has won an enviable place for himself as a classic and romantic actor in such roles as Othello, Claude Melnotte, in "The Lady of Lyons," Charles Surface in "The School for Scandal," and Richelieu. He is a valuable acquisition to Mr. Robertson, and is winning new distinction under his banner, especially in the noteworthy production of John Milton's "Comus," which Mr. Robertson is this year presenting for the first time in America.

The Baseball Umpire.

"That gentleman who is to umpire the game today is an old friend of mine," said the mild-mannered baseball fan to his neighbor as they sat leaning forward in the rgandstand, their eagerness over the coming contest enhanced by the stentorian command, "Play ball!"

"He's one of the squarest and finest of men. Yes, sir, he's a nice fellow. Say, watch the graceful attitude of our first batter! He's got his eye with him today, too, for see how he lets this first bad one go—What did the umpire call that?"

"A strike," replied his neighbor.

"Now, what do you think of that? Ball went a mile wide of the plate! Well, umpires will make mistakes. I've seen—"

At this juncture a crack rent the air and the ball sailed on a line toward the left field fence.

The mild-mannered man was on his feet in a jiffy.

"Oh, what a swat! Run, run, like the dickens! Go on and make it a homer! Look at that cuss go, will you? Go on; keep a-going. Don't stop. Make it—What's that?"

"The umpire called it a foul!"

"A foul? He's crazy! Say, Mister Umpire, put on your glasses. A foul! Good Gad, man, you're the limit! Throw him out! Go lay down somewhere, umpire! You're rotten! Rotten! Rotten!"

And in his disgust the mild-mannered fan slapped his derby hat down on the seat and sat on it.—Bohemian.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

By Horace Annesley Vachell

[Copyrighted, 1908.]

Guy recalled the parlour tricks. There was that distracting little song of Anna Held's, which Angela sang even better, with more syren-like enchantment than the Frenchwoman:

"Oh, won't you come and play wiz me?
I have such a nice little way wiz me!"

Guy put down the photograph with an exclamation.

A few minutes later he was alone with her in the drawing-room of the furnished flat which she had taken after leaving her husband's house in Grosvenor Square. The room as she found it was quite impossible. Her hands had transformed it. This, indeed, was her great, her incomparable gift: daily exercised, the ever-recurrent miracle, a delight alike to friend and foe. Inanimate things she could not touch without adorning them. Of her effects upon human beings, it is worth recording that those who had suffered most at her hands came back to kiss them. Poor young Tressilian, for instance, in whom she had fanned a flame which sent him ablaze to South Africa, left her all his money. Unfortunately, it was not much. Had there been more loot—so said the cynics—Tressilian might have been encouraged to stay in England. Guy thought of young Tressilian whenever Mrs. Tempest wore a certain necklace of diamond and opals. It had been bought with the "loot."

She was lying back in a sofa, looking like a picture by Romney and Gainsborough, when Guy was announced. Those who did not know her might have suspected a pose. As a matter of fact, she never posed. It was natural to her to look her best, to assume the most fitting, and therefore the most becoming, attitude (and frock) at moments when other women, less artistically endowed, are likely to disregard appearances.

"You're rather late," she said, holding out her hand. Guy sat down near the sofa, but not on it, for the lady occupied the exact middle of it, and on each side there was not quite room for another.

"I saw Edward first."

She laughed, not unkindly, with refreshing appreciation of the nature of Edward's errand. Then she added in her sympathetic voice: "I am really sorry for poor Edward: that he should suffer for our infirmities is such hard luck. I hope you were nice to him. Of course he was horrid to you. All the same, I should have liked to have heard him speak about poor little me."

Guy smiled faintly.

"Edward," continued Mrs. Tempest, "is not a fool, but he behaves like one on these sort of occasions."

"This is the first occasion."

"Don't pick me up, my dear friend. You know what I mean. Edward thinks it is duty, as head of the family, to break off our marriage. And he is perfectly right. If ever we meet I shall tell him how he could have done it. Had he asked me to spend a quiet month at Saffron Charteris, I should have gone there to be whitewashed, and infallibly I should have died before the month was up."

Her taking for granted the marriage did not surprise Guy, although she had never mentioned the word till today.

"John has been here," she added softly, with a side-long glance at Guy.

"Jack?"

She nodded.

That John Tempest should have visited his wife was so amazing that Guy betrayed his astonishment with a gasp of incredulity.

"He was very nice," she murmured.

"Nice?"

"Why do you look like an owl? John owes me something for releasing him, and he owes me a lot for keeping my mouth shut. If I had made counter-charges, eh?"

"But what brought him here "

"His new motor. It's a dream. He sat in the very chair you're in, and offered to write a big cheque. It was really nice of him."

"You accepted money from him?"

"No! I knew you, and your prejudices. Personally, I see no reason whatever why I shouldn't take with a humble and grateful heart as much as John cares to give me."

"That he should have come here is the most astounding thing!"

"If you must know, I sent for him."

"You sent for him?"

"Why not? Let us discuss this reasonably. You have that ugly frown on your face which you wore when that horrid McAllister was asking you questions. I wanted to ask John about Poppet."

Poppet was the only child, given by the Court into John Tempest's keeping. Guy shrugged his shoulders.

"Surely that sort of thing ought to be done through the lawyers?"

"How cold-blooded you are! Fancy asking for permission to see one's own darling child through a lawyer!"

"When does Poppet go to him?"

"In a day or two. Don't let's talk about it! I cried my eyes out before John."

There were indications of tears, not unsightly red lids, but violet circles under the eyes, and a drawn look about the mouth. Good, easy John, a sinner himself, had been sorry for her. In his blundering, brutal way, he had tried to dry those tears with a cheque, knowing by long experience what a tear-tryptic a cheque is to some women. Even John, who knew, was sorry for her.

And such is the power of beauty in distress that Guy, too, felt a poignant regret that things had not been ordered otherwise so far as he was concerned. Her irresponsibility quickened the sense of responsibility dormant in him. She must have guessed what was passing in his mind, for with a sigh and a quiver of the lip, she abandoned the central position on the sofa, and, turning aside, hid her face in a big silk cushion. Guy whispered a few words of comfort.

Presently she spoke of her plans with increasing satisfaction and assurance.

"You must nip off to Newfoundland and shoot caribou. It's a comfort to think we've the right sort of pals, isn't it?"

"Ye-es."

"In six months people will have forgotten the trial. We must go very canny at first; but with the best cook in London and the best shooting in the country, all will yet be well. You were so clever, Guy, as the devil's disciple; and it was dear of you to let me appear as more sinned against than sinning. You know, I'm thinking of wearing half-mourning; black and white is becoming to fair women."

"Will you dine with me tonight?"

She laughed.

Naphtha Soaps Are Not "All Alike".

They resemble one another in only one respect—they contain naphtha.

But naphtha is not the "whole thing", even in naphtha soaps. The quality of the soap with which the naphtha is combined is just as important—more so, in fact, because it is soap, not naphtha, that CLEANS.

Naphtha loosens the dirt. Soap cleans.

Now, the naphtha in P. & G. Naphtha Soap is identical with that used in other naphtha soaps.

But the soap is not the same. It is better. It is harder. It lasts longer. It does more work. It does better work—does it easier, QUICKER.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is white—because of the cocoanut oil in it. Other naphtha soaps are yellow—too much rosin in them.

"The color tells the story".

SUNDVAYS EXPLAIN FAILURE TO WRITE

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sundvay who were thought to have been in the wreck at Helena returned home this morning with interesting stories of the west. Mr. and Mrs. Sundvay were not in the wreck as was thought but were at Butte, Mont., when the injured and dead people were brought there. Mr. Sundvay says it was an awful sight. The reason for their not writing was that as soon as they arrived at Butte they sent a few postal cards to their friends and then started for a twenty-eight mile drive where the land was. They left Butte on Tuesday and intended to return on Friday but there was a very strong bliggard and it was impossible for them to get back to Butte so they waited and drove to Butte Saturday intending to file their claim and leave for La Crosse. They found the land office closed on Saturday afternoon. Then they were obliged to wait over until Monday. Mrs. Sundvay sent a card Saturday before they found out the land office was not open that they would leave for home in the evening. Mrs. Sundvay said that she liked the country very well for a while, but she thought that she would not like to live out there. Mrs. Sundvay says that they intend to go out next spring and prove up their claim, but will not stay permanently.

THOUSANDS OF PUPILS SUFFER FROM HUNGER

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Five thousand Chicago children frequently are sent to school breakfastless.

Ten thousand other school children habitually are hungry as the result of receiving insufficient nourishing food.

Lack of "a square deal and a square meal" is the principal reason why so many boys become truants and delinquents.

Such is the story of suffering and wretchedness presented before the school management committee of the board of education yesterday in an exhaustive report by a subcommittee consisting of W. L. Bodine, superintendent of the compulsory education department; Dr. D. P. MacMillan, director of the child study department, and Attorney Frank Hamlin.

BUST OF ZOLA MADE FROM CHURCH BELL

During his lifetime, Emile Zola was a consistent enemy of the clerical party in France. In his opposition to it, he took up the cause of Dreyfus, and for a time was so greatly hated that he was obliged to free from France in order to escape imprisonment. Time brings its changes Only a few weeks ago his body was laid to rest with military and civic honors in the Pantheon, his burial there being a triumph over both the army and the nhurch. This was a triumph indeed, but scarcely less is the tribute paid him at Suresnes. It was here that the local authorities had occasion to demolish a parish church In doing so they caused the bell to be melted and made into a bust of Zola. This was lately unveiled at a public ceremony. This bell, converted into an effigy of Zola, typifies the present triumph of the anti-clerical party in France. It bears upon its pedestal the words which Zola uttered at the time when his name was hated and when he was threatened with exile and disgrace:

"One day France will recognize that I have saved its honor."

GERMANS OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION

PASS RESOLUTIONS ON TEMPERANCE AT MEETING

ABSTINENCE IS APPROVED

Believe in Total Abstinence but Not Prohibition—Winona Gets the Next Convention

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 2.—The annual meeting of the Federation of German societies closed in this city yesterday afternoon after a successful session. The Catholic day celebration of Monday was the feature of the meeting. Two thousand Germans, from all over the state, assembled at the Davidson Opera house. Addresses were given by County Attorney J. B. Himsl; Bishop James Trobec, of this city; Rev. Max Wurst of Wabasha, and George Stelzle of Minneapolis.

The business session of the Staats Verband was held yesterday morning and the following officers were elected: President, John S. Grode, St. Paul; financial secretary, Willibald Eibner, New Ulm; recording secretary, A. C. Anfang, St. Paul; treasurer, Paul Kemp, St. Paul; executive committee, Rev. Pauline, O. S. B., Stillwater; George Gerlach, St. Paul; George Stelzle, Minneapolis, and J. Q. Juenemann.

Resolutions recommending more support to the Catholic press, recommending Catholic education, opposition to harmful papers, and preservation of the vernacular, were adopted by the convention.

The following resolution was passed on temperance and prohibition: In regard to the temperance and prohibition questions the Catholics adhere to the teachings of the church, in that they advocate moderation in all things, and likewise in the use of liquor. One of the great evils and tendencies toward intemperance is the practice of treating, and it is urged that anti-treating societies be formed. A friendly feeling also exists toward the foundation of total abstinence societies, who practice what they preach through their own free will. On the other hand, however, prohibition is looked upon as being neither within the rights of citizens nor conducive to actual temperance or abstinence.

At the annual meeting of the D. R. K. U. G. M., held here, the following officers were elected: President, George Gerlach, St. Paul; secretary, J. Q. Juenemann, St. Paul; treasurer, Frank Erling, St. Paul; member of finance committee, J. Leonard, St. Paul; member of executive committee, Math Gross and Paul Kemp, both of St. Paul; state organizer, George Stelzle, Minneajpolis.

It is never too late to mend, but don't put it off till you forget how.

The Stomach Does Not Cause Dyspepsia

Neither Will It Cure It Because The Lack Of Gastric Juices Prohibit Relief.

The stomach is a strong, powerful organ, which is composed of muscles of great strenth. It is filled during digestion with gastric juices which, when the stomach, extending and compressing the food, dissolve it and separate the nourishment from the waste matter. If, however, these gastric juices are lacking, the stomach is not capable of digesting its food because it has not the tools with which to work successfully.

The gastric juices when in a perfect state do away with all foul odors, fermentation and decay, reduce the food to a disintegrated mass and the stomach then presses it into the intestines where another form of digestion take from this mass of food all that is nourishing and give it to the blood. The waste matter is thrown from the system.

If instead of nourishment the intestines receive impure deposits combined with a poisonous and imperfect gastric juice, it can be readily seen that they must turn such imperfect nourishment into the blood. The blood then being unable to give each part of the body that which it requires, becomes impoverished and disease is spread broadcast.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets corrects such a condition at once. If the gastric juices are lacking and imperfect these tablets do their work just the same. They build up the elements in the juice which are lacking and remove those elements which cause disturbance.

Meat, grains, fluids, vegetables and delicacies, in fact each portion of a large meal have been placed in a glass vial and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have digested them to a perfect fluid just as a healthy stomach would do.

A large complex, hearty meal holds no terrors for a dyspeptic if Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used. Abnormal eating, late dinners, rich foods cause ill effects to the stomach, but when Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used one may eat when and what one will without danger of dyspepsia or discomfort.

Forty thousand physicians endorse and prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and every druggist carries them in stock, price 50c. Send us your name and address and we will send you at once by mail a sample package free. Address, F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

WILLIAM JENNINGS WAS A GOOD WINNER

MRS. BRYAN WAS DISMISSED FOR DRIVING WITH HIM

SHE WAS AGAIN REINSTATED

Mrs. Bryan Says Her Husband Always Was Popular Man and Says That He is a Sure Winner

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 2.—Mrs. William Jennings Bryan admitted that when she was a student at the Jacksonville Presbyterian academy in Illinois was expelled from the institution because she went buggy riding with the democratic candidate for the presidency, who was then attending school in the same town.

"I am not one bit ashamed of it," said Mrs. Bryan. "I would do the same thing again. William always was a winner and always will be.

"Many girls besides myself thought Mr. Bryan a real nice young man when he was attending school in Danville. He was the most popular beau in the village.

"I don't believe in girls disobeying their teachers when at school, but I do think that if a girl really loves a man it is no harm at least to let him know it occasionally.

"Mr. Bryan, on the occasion that I went buggy riding with him, really persuaded me against my own inclination to take the ride. He had a friend with him who is now the Rev. Julian S. Wadsworth, pastor of an Episcopal chuch at Brocton, Mass.

"They met me on the street and called to me to get in and take a ride. I knew it was against the rules of the school, but when Mr. Bryan told me how dearly he wished to talk with me, I couldn't resist the invitation.

"When I returned, I was expelled. Later however, I was reinstated and became valedictorian of my class."

DIVISION MAY BE OPPOSED BY WINONA

WINONA, Minn., Oct. 2.—The first convocation of the newly created Winona deanery opened here at St. Paul's church, and the sessions are being continued through the day. A feature of the convention is the presence of Bishop Morrison, of Des Moines, Ia., whose son, Rev. Cameron Morrison, is rector of the Episcopal church at Wabasha. The principal business matter to come before the session is the proposed setting off of the St. Paul diocese from the Minnesota diocese. Dr. John Wright, of St. Paul, will lead the debate in favor of setting off the diocese. The general opinion in the deanery is in opposition to the division of the Minnesota diocese, and it is quite likely that resolutions opposing the plan will be adopted.

CATTLE ENTRY IS STOPPED BY MONT.

MILES CITY, Mont., Oct. 2.—Deputy State Veterinarian W. S. Swank notified both the St. Paul and the Northern Pacific railway companies that for the present no livestock of any kind may be shipped into Montana. The interdiction does not, however, hold as to shipments from Montana outward.

The order was issued at the instance of State Veterinarian M. E. Knowles and is due to the prevalence of the deadly disease known as anthrax in states bordering on Montana.

The sheriff of Custer county, at the instance of the state veterinarian, has notified his deputies not to allow any domestic animals to cross the southeastern border of Montana into this state from either Wyoming or Dakota, and Judge Loud has been requested to see that all interested in livestock in southeastern Montana be notified. A meeting has been arranged for an early date to decide on preventive measures.

STOLE HER WATCH AND HER DIAMONDS

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Oct. 2. — Accused of robbing Florence Sanburn of a gold watch and diamonds of a total value of $300, Ed Hardy was arrested in East Grand Forks. The robbery is alleged to have been committed at an early hour in the northern part of Grand Forks. Mrs. Sanburn had been out late, and had started to return to her room in a Demers avenue odging house. She met a stranger and asked him the way. He told her he would show her, but took her in a different direction. In a lonely spot he choked her and took her watch and valuables. In robbing her he missed taking $700 worth of diamonds she had in one hand. In Hardy's possession is a watch belonging to Mrs. Sanburn, it is alleged.

WHITE THIEF SHOT BY ST. PAUL NEGRO

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 2. — Mike Crotty, a teamster, was shot by Harry Hicks, colored, at Fourth and Wacouta streets, sustaining injuries which will probably prove fatal.

Crotty robbed Miss Christina Benson of her handbag, and Hicks with Lester De Boe, another colored man giving chase, opened fire on the fugitive.

He fired two shots, one bullet grazing Grotty's right temple, the other hitting him below the shoulder and piercing the left lung.

Grotty was taken to the city hospital. He had an internal hemorrhage, which the physicians considered fatal.

STEPHENSON PAT, OTHERS ALL FILE

SENATORIAL CANDIDATES, EXCEPT HIM, FILE ACCTS.

HE WILL NOT DO SO

It is Said Fear Legislature Would Rescut Profligacy Moves Him to Secretion

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—All of the candidates for United States senator before the recent primary have filed their campaign expense seatements, excepeing Senator Stephenson. The other candidates are said to have filed early, in order to put it up to Stephenson that he must file his before the legislature votes its approval of his endorsement. Stephenson, however, basing his action on an opinion by ehe attorney general to the effect that the law does not specifically require him to file his statement before the election, has not made publis his alleged $500,000.00 expense account, and it is claimed he will avoid doing so, fearing that the statement would arouse the legislature to such a pitch of indignation as to result in the repudiation of the primary.

Senator Hatton's account is most definite of all of them, while Cook regrets in an open letter that he was "compelled" to spend so much money. Neal Brown, the democrat, spent but approximately $1.000. McGovern spent $11,000, Hatton $26,-413.08, Cook $29,000.

edge as to their representations to other people."

This aroused the suspicions of local business men, and when the fact became known that solicitations had been made upon the pretense that Mr. Easton was identified with the company as a stockholder and prospective director, the promoters were placed under police surveillance. So far as has been learned, they secured no money by the sale of stock under these representations. However, two of them left the city quickly and quietly after being taken to the station to be interviewed, going to Dubuque, Ia.

Another Story Told

A telephone message from Dubuque says Mr. Webber has sought to sell no stock there, representing that it was all sold. He had merely sought to interest shippers in his scheme, and had let a contract with a Dubuque foundry for the building of twenty-eight steel freight barges. He said that the two steel passenger boats to complete the proposed fleet were already in process of construction in Glasgow, Scotland. These are circumstances not divulged in La Crosse, and the substantial looking statement about the building of the boats is made less convincing only by the single alleged admission that "The specifications are not yet completed."

A SEASON PASS.

This Special One Only Issued to Rheumatics

It is a lovely thing to go where you want to, and feel just right, at any time it may suit your fancy, but how often are you hampered by your Rheumatism in such a way that it makes it impossible to go and even the staying at home is accompanied by pain and suffering that makes your very existence a drudge and irksome not only to you but to all your associates and family as well. It has been said that "When a man begins to go down, the whole world seems greased for the occasion." This is not only true of his luck and fortune, but it also is synonymous of his health for when one affliction overtakes him, it is invariably accompanied by other ills so the ultimatum of peace with all is to keep in the best of condition so your body may fight these ills in its own peculiar way. But then, we are sorry to say, there are many who have not taken this precaution and are now set upon by ills galore but the most discouraging ill, and the one accompanied by the greatest pain, is Rheumatism. Apparently all well one day and the next confined in bed; or worse, daily growing less active and the exercise necessary to the pursuit of your occupation growing more hard as time goes on because of the greater pain experienced as each hour slips by until finally compelled to give up all methods of procuring your title of living and eventually having it all end, by the muscles of the heart becoming filled with the chalky or crystalized particles that are the basis of all Rheumatism and called Uric Acid and in the end getting the ascendency over all and passing the victim beyond to the grim reaper—that is the lot of a Rheumatic.

But Kast has come to La Crosse with a remedy that causes a transformation in the dark dungeon of Despair in which the sufferer has sank and consequently, he offers to every person troubled with any form of Rheumatism or any of its subdivisions a pass to health for now and always, for the remedy which has caused this sensation to sweep the country, will cure and cure permanently. It goes to the seat of Rheumatism, attacking the cause, removing it but best of all, stopping its formation and there is the very thing to which the Rheumaline Remedies owe their success and that is why Rheumaline cures permanently.

Rheumaline cures all kinds of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgic Gout, and any disorders arising from Uric Acid in the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder, Stomach or blood, and only costs $1.00 per bottle, and Rheumaline Capsules cost 50c per box. These two form a Rheumaline Treatment, and should be taken together.

It will be found at Hoeschler's Drug Store, where Kast is located, and a fair trial will convince you. It contains no salicylates, opiates or in fact no drugs of any sort that will injure the system but only those that help the different organs that are the most vital and important. Try it and be fair with yourself. The cure is guaranteed.

Remember: Kast—Rheumaline—Hoeschler's, 123 South Fourth St.

FOUR THOUSAND AT GALESVILLE FAIR

The Galesville fair was a big success yesterday, there being about 4,-000 paid admissions. The big event on the program yesterday and today was the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the fair by a home-coming. The most interesting feature of the home-coming was the big tent on the grounds where the old residents and early settlers gave informal speeches and reminiscences of the earlier days. Today is jollification day and a number of big free carnival shows besides the home-coming are the attraction.

The fair this year was not a big success financially as the first two days were disagreeable and scarcely anyone turned out. The attendance yesterday was excellent, however, and with a good attendance today the association will come out even at least.

The races today will include the 2:16 pace with 5 entries; the farmers free for all and the four wheeled vehicle race.

The results of yesterday's races were as follows:

2:16 pace—Little Marx first, Elvea second, Willmont third, Harry H fourth. Time, 2:19.

2:40 pace—Bonnie B. first, Happy Joe second, Miss Lockford third, Stub fourth. Time, 2:34¼.

DAVIDSON RECANTS HIS TARIFF STAND

BEAVER DAM, Wis., Oct. 2.—In an address at the fair here yesterday Governor Davidson said:

"This was republican day and we were all republicans. Certain newspapers have said there was a disposition toward stand-pattism in Wisconsin. No one will be deceived by such statements. The republican party in Wisconsin stands for progressive legislation, an early revision of the tariff downward, and any other statement is untrue."

In a speech before the recent republican platform convention, after having opposed the adoption of the La Follette tariff plank rejected at the Chicago convention, the governor, according to the stenographic report of the speech, said:

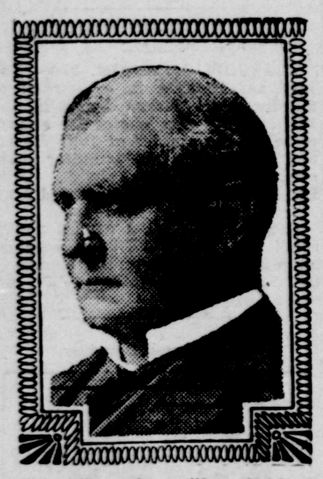

"If the tariff plank adopted at Chicago is made into law, you and I will be sorry for it within two years."

LIFE'S ROAD
Smoothed by Change of Food

Worry is a big load to carry and an unnecessary one. When accompanied by indigestion it certainly is cause for the blues.

But the whole trouble can be easily thrown off and life's road be made easy and comfortable by proper eating and the cultivation of good cheer. Hear what a Troy woman says:

"Two years ago I made the acquaintance of Grape-Nuts and have used the food once a day and sometimes twice, ever since.

"At the time I began to use it life was a burden. I was for years afflicted with bilious sick headache, caused by indigestion, and nothing seemed to relieve me.

"The trouble became so severe I had to leave my work for days at a time.

"My nerves were in such a state I could not sleep and the doctor said I was on the verge of nervous prostration. I saw an adv. concerning Grape-Nuts and bought a package for trial.

"What Grape-Nuts has done for me is certainly marvelous. I can now sleep like a child, am entirely free from the old trouble and have not had a headache in over a year. I feel like a new person. I have recommended it to others. One man I knew ate nothing but Grape-Nuts, while working on the ice all winter, and said he never felt better in his life."

"There's a reason."

DRY CANDIDATES BOUGHT NO DRINKS

That the prohibition candidates for the various county offices spent very little "drink money" is shown by the small amount expended by them during the primaries.

Martin Caspberg, candidate for the assembly from the Second district spent just $2.00 to secure his nomination, while Oliver Needham for county clerk, spent $2.25.

JOSEPH LOEFFLER WAS OUT FOR BLOOD

DISPLAYS KNIVES AT HOME OF ALBERT PUST

FAMILY SEEKS TALL TIMBER

Pust Runs for an Officer and Former Saloon Porter is Fined Today for His Conduct

While on a "tear" last night Joseph Loeffler, formerly porter at the Schiller, went to the home of Albert Pust and upon displaying several large knives, announced that he was out for blood. The members of Mr. Pust's family immediately left for the "tall and uncit" and Mr. Pust hatless and coatless ran up the street hunting an offiver. He found Thomas McDonough and the two returned to the house. They found Loeffler in possession, but he submitted to arrest. This morning he pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery and was given his choice of paying a fine of $5 and costs amounting to $9.82, or spending 20 days in the county jail.

There has been ill feeling between the two and with a large quantity of liquid aboard Loeffler decided to settle all obligations.

La France
SHOE for WOMEN

If you will come in and ask to try on La France shoes yours will be an unusual case if you don't make some flattering exclamation as to their comfort as soon as you feel them on your feet.

Then you will realize that never before have you tried on a shoe which made your feet look so shapely, neat and dainty. And if you buy the shoes — as we believe you will when you see them — you will in the course of time discover that these qualities of comfort and fit stay with the shoe as long as it lasts, and that it lasts longer than any shoe you ever bought for the money.

There are reasons for this — good reasons—materials, careful workmanship, patient attention to those little details which alone can make a shoe both beautiful to look at and comfortable to wear. But the shoes themselves speak louder than anything we can say in our advertising—come and see them.

Perhaps the La France Flexible Welt shoe will particularly interest you. It permits a remarkable flexibility in the sole of the shoe which makes it wonderfully comfortable, especially when standing or walking.

BRYAN SURPRISED AT TAFT POSITION

NEBRASKAN REPLIES TO OHIOAN ON PUBLICITY

WHY NOT BEFORE ELECTION?

Right of Voters to Know—Gives Line Onto Whom Party Is Likely to Be Under Obligation

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 2.—William J. Bryan, returning yesterday from an eastern speech-making tour of nearly four weeks, issued another pronounciamento on the subject of campaign publicity, his utterances being in direct answer to the declaration in Lincoln of his adversary, Mr. Taft, who armed the position recently taken by Presidnt Roosevelt on the same subject. Mr. Bryan said:

"I am surprised to find that Mr. Taft indorses the president's views on the subject of publicity as to campaign contributions, but since he holds these views, I am glad that he makes them known now. We now have publicity before the election, as to his opinion, even if he does not believe in publicity of contributions until after the election. He fails to see the difference between the publication of contributions bfore election and the publication of expenditures before election.

As Bryan Sees It.

"The publication of expenditures is required to show whether corrupt methods have been employed in the election, and as the expenditures continue up to the close of the polls, it would be impossible to make a complete publication until after the election. The publication of contributions ought to be before election; the main reason for the publica contributions before the election is to show the public the sources from which the contributions come, in order that the public may know which party predatory interests are supporting. Everyone who knows human nature knows that the element of gratitude must always be considerd in human affairs. Ingratitude has been described as a worse situation than revenge, for ingratitude repays good with evil, while revenge only repays evil with evil. Every disinterested voter knows that large contributions have been used to secure mortgages upon officials.

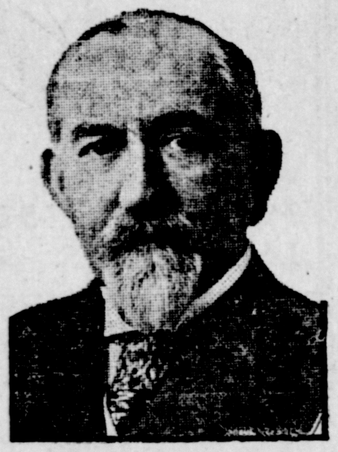

Show Whom Party Is Indebted To.

"The publication of contributions throws a great deal more light on the influences at work in politics than the publication of expenditures, for the publication of contributions shows to whom the party is indebted and to whom repayment is likely to be made, while the publication of expenditures shows what has been paid out, and disbursements do not create obligations that affect the course of the administration."

In conclusion Mr. Bryan referred to Mr. Taft's statement that Thomas F. Ryan contributed $15,000 to the Nebraska campaign fund in 1904 and said:

"This has been denied, but I assume that he has taken the statements of some of his republican advisers without taking the time to verify these statements. Mr. Ryan did not contribute any money to the Nebraska campaign fund."

HIS ADVICE MUCH RELIED UPON

CHARLES F. BROOKER

One of the leading advisers in the conduct of the republican national campaign this year is Charles Frederick Brooker, member of the republican national committee from Connecticut. Brooker was at one time prominently urged for the chairmanship of the committee, and while he does not occupy this position in name he is one of the leading spirits in the executive committee of the national committee, which has the campaign in tow.

The political party is fortunate which can interest such men as Mr. Brooker in its activities, for he is one of the greatest financiers in New England. He is president and guiding spirit of a score of corporations, and director in a score of banks and trust companies. He belongs to nearly all of the exclusive clubs in New York city and is altogether one of the leading citizens of the east. His home is in Ansonia, Conn.

FUNERAL OF MRS. AMSRUD TOMORROW

Maglessen officiating. Mrs. Amsrud left three children, Morris, Alice and Odelia.

Better be imposed upon by giving to the unworthy poor than to allow the worthy poor to go hungry.

REPUBLICANS OPEN NEW HEADQUARTERS

The republican county committee has opened headquarters upstairs in the Stirneman block, 318 Main street, and in a few days the rooms will be equipped and ready for vote-promotion. These are the same headquarters occupied before.

STANDARD OIL "AD" OVER IN CHINA

An interesting example of the enterprise which has pushed the Standard Oil over the entire world is found in the above advertisement, which appeared in a Chinese newspaper recently. The purport of the advertisement is to the effect that the Standard Oil company offers a complete lamp, wick and chimney for 7½ cents. Last vear more than 75,000 of these lamps were sold.

The lamp costs the Standard Oil company about 11 cents, but is sold at the reduced rate in order to induce the Chinese to burn more oil. It is scientifically built and is the result of many years of labor on the part of the Standard Oil experts in perfecting this design. It is small, compact, with a broad base and has a hook on the back so that it may be hung on the wall. Its burner is designed so as to give the maximum light for the size of the wick.

WANT PARDON FOR MAN WHO SHOT GIRL

MAY FREE ALBERT ULLMAN WHO SHOT DAUGHTER

IS NOW 72 YEARS OF AGE

And is at Present Serving a 10 Year Sentence—Prominent People Will Influence Governor

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—Notice has been received here that later in October an application will be made to the governor for the pardon of Albert Ullman of Neosha, who is now serving a ten years' sentence in Waupun for shooting and attempting to murder his daughter Ida. John A. Kelly of Oconomowoc will file his application with the governor and probably make the plea for the release of the prisoner.

The crime for which Ullman is paying the penalty was committed in August, 1902. The girl was shot on the road near her home in the town of Lebanon and was found several hours later by a neighbor. She recovered from her injuries after a long illness. The trial of Ullman was one of the most bitter legal battles in the history of Dodge county. His defense was that he did not intend to shoot his daughter, only wanting to frighten her into confessing where she had placed a sum of money he accused her of taking from his trunk. He claimed the discharge of the weapon was accidental.

Ullman was sentenced to Waupun in 1904, for ten years. He is now 72 years old and is reported to have conducted himself well during his imprisonment. He has been doing garden work at the prison.

The burglars fled and an examination of the safe in the bank showed that while they had blown off the door, they had not broken open the strong box within, and had secured no booty.

The cracksmen fled on a handcar which they had stolen on the Soo road and had transferred to the Milwaukee line. They were traced south toward Newark and the hand car was found in a cornfield, where they had hidden it with corn stalks.

ONE MORE DAY TO SEND IN SUGGESTIONS

EACH NEW SUBSCRIPTION IS AN OPPORTUNITY TO GET 5,000 VOTES

NOT TOO LATE TO SEND IN YOUR NOMINATIONS

MANY CHANGES IN THE STANDINGS TODAY

ALL ARE WORKING HARD AND NO ONE HAS ANY DECIDED ADVANTAGE—CONTESTANTS SHOULD REMEMBER VOTES ARE NOT HARD TO GET—THE JUDGES WHO WILL DECIDE ON NAMES WILL BE PUBLISHED TOMORROW

The judges who will decide the naming of the ponies and at the same time the lucky contestants who suggested these names have been selected and will be named Saturday. They are all well known men in this community and are capable and well qualified to pick out the best names for Shetland ponies the Tribune are now naming. They will undoubtedly have a hard time to pick out what names will be the best as the Contest Manager has been flooded with suggestions and he must say that if he had to do it, I am afraid you wouldn't have any Contest Manager as he would find it a pretty hard job to judge. The names suggested show a great deal of thought and conscientious work by contestants.

Another flood of votes and many changes in the standing of the numerous contestants are the features of this week's Tony Pony contest today. The heaviest ballot of the entire contest was cast yesterday and the ballot clerks were very busy from morning till night counted and duly checked. The fact that votes can be secured the easiest by means of securing new subscribers or by getting subscribers to pay up and in advance appeals to the various contestants and they are working hard along these lines. The clipping of coupons and nomination blanks is still popular and contestants are urged to get as many as possible. Be sure and watch the expiration date of the voting coupon and get it to the Tribune office before it is too late.

There is a great deal of interest being taken in the special pony naming contest being conducted this week. For every new subscriber brought or sent into the Tribune office the contestant can make a suggestion for a name for the first pony. Every new subscriber is entitled to one suggestion by the contestant bringing that name in. A name will be selected by a committee of judges outside the Tribune office and the contestant who selected that name will be given 5,000 extra votes. A second choice will be made and the contestant who selected that name will be given 2,500 votes extra and the third choice will receive 1,000 extra votes. This is a very liberal offer and all the contestants should take advantage of it.

Good Many Changes.

In District No. 1, Willie Jacobs jumps from the 16th place to the top of the list. This shows that Master Willie has had something up his sleeves and was prepared to go first when he wanted to show his competitors a little of his strength. There is not a contestant in this district but who could do the same thing if they would use a little effort on their part and it is entirely up to you whether you will drive this little pony or not.

In District No. 2, Wesley Gifford takes first place, which is a very small lead as the other contestants are crowding him very hard.

In District No. 3, Floyd Larson heads this list, but the biggest change is that of B. Onalse Summerfield who jumps up to fourth place from the sixteenth. The contestants all the way down the list are showing decided gains and there is no one in this district who has any lead to speak of.

In District No. 4, Clyde Barnes goes to the head followed very closely by Paul Barton. There is also a great many changes in this district showing that District No. 4 is having an exciting time.

LEAGUERS IN LAST GAMES TOMORROW

President John Elliott of the La Crosse baseball club received notice this morning that the St. Paul Colored Diamonds who were to play the St. Paul Colored Gophers here in the league park on Saturday and Sunday, had disbanded and that the game could not be played. Rather than disappoint the local fans who counted on seeing the game, a team of La Crosse All Stars will be on hand to play the Gophers.

The All Stars will line up as follows: Vogt, cf; Burke, 1b; Bond, ss; Kercheis, 2b; Mueller, 3b; Jones, p; Wolford, p, and R. F. Baillies, p; Weis, c; Swan, lf.

A number of these players are league players and undoubtedly they will put up a strong game. The change will no doubt be a drawing card as the local fans are acquainted with the all stars and will turn out in a body to see what will probably be the last game of the year.

"SOUSED." THOUGHT HE'D BEEN ROBBED

William Bey was fined $5.00 and costs amounting to $7.50 in all in Justice Hunt's court this morning. Bey was arrested for creating a disturbance in a down town saloon where he claimed that some one had robbed him and he had started several fights so the police were called and Bey was taken to the station where it was found that the robbery was all the result of the imagination of a "drunk."

WRECK FATAL TO

TOLEDO, Oct. 2.—Four are dead and two were fatally injured in a collision on the Ohio Central railway late last night. The extra freight struck a passenger bringing people from the state fair. The freight left Bowling Green back of the passenger. The passenger was ordered to slow down before the first stop so the conductor could collect fares. The freight, unaware of the reduced speed, made regular time, and struck the passenger. It is alleged that the signal lights were not properly displayed on the rear passenger coach.

DO CATTLE GIVE US TUBERCULOSIS?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—A caucus of the delegates to the International Tuberculosis Congress, who are opposed to the theory of Dr. Koch that transmission of bovine tuberculosis to humans has not been proved, has been called for the purpose of endeavoring to force the congress to make a positive declaration on the subject. It is alleged that experiments have proved that bovine tuberculosis is transmittable. Americans are particularly interested because they have done expensive work to stamp out cattle tuberculosis.

FOOD MEN ARE IN SECRET MEETING

WILL TRY TO PROMOTE THE ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS

WANT NO ROTTEN TOMATOES

Say that Manufacturers Use Decayed Tomatoes in Manufacturing Catsup

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—If the campaign and declarations of several food commissioners who have been holding secret meetings in the Park hotel for the past few days to promote the uniform enforcement of the food laws and cooperation among food officials of the states of the middle west, are carried out, spurious and unsanitary foods will be swept from the markets.

The meetings of the association, which were concluded last evening, were attended by Commissioners Ladd, North Dakota; Barnard, Indiana; Wheaton, South Dakota; Emery, Wisconsin; Wright, Iowa; Chemists Fischer, Wisconsin; Shepherd, South Dakota; Bryan and Nehls, Illinois; West, Minnesota; Robison, Michigan; Mitchell and McCabe, United States department of agriculture.

No Rotten Tomatoes.

One of the most pertinent resolutions adopted was that the several states should adopt laws to secure "full and complete control of food producing, manufacturing and distributing establishments and agencies." The same resolution says that it has come to the notice of the commissioners "that in some cases rotten, mouldy, decomposed and unwholesome tomatoes are being used in the manufacture of tomato catsup," and it was resolved that the food officials of the country investigate and adopt every possible measure "to prevent the use of such material."

The use of so called "liquid smoke" and similar preparations in treating fish, ham, bacon, sausage, and other meat products is denounced as fraudulent and a menace to health" and the sale of products so treated will be contested."

Ice Water Oysters.

The commissioners passed a resolution that the addition of ice or water to shucked oysters has the effect of lowering the strength, quality and purity and the sale of such will be contested in the various states represented in the meeting as an adulteration.

The addition of soap bark or cocaine to soft drinks will be contested and another resolution on the same subject declares that the addition of caffein to drinks is unnecessary" and reaching as it does largely the child population of our states, is fraught with extreme danger and constitutes a menace to health." Sausages and compounds must be made of clean and sound meat and clearly labeled.
